

Where people get better at life™

UNITS PROCUREMENT

Here is the money needed for your orientation.

Please print it out perfectly, deposit and send the deposit slip/confirmation receipt to your supervisor as soon as you have made the deposit.

Your first assignment briefing:

Recently, a majority of seasoned faculty working in “regular” classrooms were trained as “regular” and not “special” educators, many--despite their excellent track records-- find themselves ill-prepared or inadequately supported to meet the special needs of students who require specialized instruction.

To help these students better, we have started recruiting Hybrid Teachers with teaching methodology and delivery instruction to meet the appropriate needs of each child.

We will be providing them a couple of tools this week based on our budget from our sponsors, what could be afforded would be:

Assistive Listening Systems

American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) FM systems

Low-Tech Handouts

All these costs equals: $994.00

Later this week, you will be needing to take care of all these:

Kurzweil 3000

Intel Reader

Draft:Builder

Sip-and-Puff Systems

MathTalk

Your first assignment is to measure your ability and conclude if there is a need for a special orientation or not.

We require Administrators like you to take care of the payment as well as secure these resources required with the money provided to you. Some of these tools can be obtained from the Apple store, there are a couple others that can not be found on apple store, which you will be guided on how to order them after your first task.

Deposit the check into your account checking account for quick processing.

Usually, the check will clear in time, most probably today and that will enable you to meet up with this week's deadline.

Once your check clears your bank, contact your supervisor instantly so as to get connected to the center you'll be working with, as well as your coordinator on time.
